

Austria - land of mountains, land of skiing. Following their maps of the entire Alpine area, the latest project by Marmota Maps is their first map to focus on an entire Alpine country, displaying all of Austria's 413 ski resorts. "We do have a special relation with Austria", Lana Bragina says. "Many of our friends and partners, who we are associated with in more than two years of Marmota Maps, live and work there. And we also like to stop by for a visit, whenever we have the chance. This is not the only, yet one of the reasons, why we wanted to create this new map." Stefan Spiegel adds: "From an objective point of view Austria is certainly one of the most relevant countries for Alpine skiing. Our large map of the ski resorts of the Alps counts more Austrian ski areas than for any other Alpine country. And even the skiing cottage of the Hamburg division of the German Alpine Association is situated in Austria."

As on the other Alpine maps all ski areas with a minimum combined slope length of five kilometers or more are drawn in with their outer contours. Smaller resorts are also added and marked as dots. With the data from skiresort.info the map lists for each of the 413 ski resorts, divided by difficulty, blue, red, and black slope kilometers, as well as the minimum and maximum height of each resort.

Apart from the ski areas the state borders, the most important waters, roads and passes, and mountains and cities help to orientate oneself on the map.

The new map of the 413 ski resorts of Austria will be available on 15th November for 30 € on www.marmotamaps.com and in selected shops.

MARMOTA MAPS – ABOUT US

Marmota Maps is a project by Lana Bragina and Stefan Spiegel in Hamburg, Germany. Both share a passion for geography, design, and the graphical presentation of data and information. Following a successful Kickstarter campaign in 2015 they published the first transnational map of the entire Alps with all ski resorts on it. With over 2,000 maps sold, they are constantly developing new creative design ideas and products. Because of their love for the mountains, the focus of Marmota Maps lies primarily in the Alpine region. But the start-up is also exploring other topics and regions.
